Charles L. Sylvester Stricken With Paralytic Stroke In News-Bulletin Office

Charles Sylvester, aged 79 years, a resident of Mokena for a number of years, was stricken with a paralytic stroke in the News-Bulletin office Tuesday morning while talking with Editor Semmler, relative to an article which he had written and which appears elsewhere in this edition.

The attack came very quickly. Dr. E. G. McMahon was summoned and found the aged gentleman in a quite serious condition, the entire left side being affected. He rendered first aid treatment and later in the day, Mr. Sylvester was taken to the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet.

Mr. Sylvester has been in poor health for sometime. It is presumed that a long walk from his home to the News-Bulletin office may have overtaxed his heart. He has been living with the Don C. Hall family.

Mr. Sylvester is well known throughout this and surrounding territory. He was engaged in the carpet and rug weaving business for a number of years, but failing health compelled him to give up this work of late.

Up to time of going to press his condition remained about the same.

Tinley Woman's Club Discusses Publicity

At the regular business meeting of the Tinley Park Woman's club, held Wednesday afternoon in the M. E. church the following new members were taken in: Mrs. W. W. Kester, Mrs. Chas. Samuels, Mrs. Walter Johnson, Mrs. J. S. Oulman, and Mrs. Dennis Murphy. There will also be new members taken in at the November meeting.

The president, Mrs. O. Ebenhack gave a splendid talk on club cooperation and spoke of the outlook for the year for the Tinley Park club. A very fine club women's prayer was read by Mrs. Ebenhack.

Among the announcements were, the 3rd district meeting to be held next Wednesday, October 30, in the Kidge Field House on 95th street, with the Beverly Hills club as hostess. This is an all-day meeting and those desiring to attend should notify Mrs. Frank Baldwin.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. Alice Anderson sang: "Morning Glories" and "Autumn Song", accompanied by Mrs. Carl Panknin on the piano.

At 2 p. m. the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Walter Bartlett, who introduced Mrs. Wm. Semmler, Press and Publicity chairman who read the following piece from the pen of the world beloved Will Rogers:

Leave Me My Newspaper

Thus writes Will Rogers as to the country newspaper:

"Take my ham away, take away my eggs, even my chili, but leave me my newspaper. Even if it just has such purely local news as 'Jim Jones came home last night unexpectedly and bloodshed ensued,' or Jesse Bushyhead our local M. D. is having one of the best years of his career, practically speaking—but they just won't pay him when they get well." The county seat was packed yesterday with prominent visitors from out of town, attempting to renew their notes, and 'election ain't far off and everybody is up for office that can sign an application blank.'

"Now all that don't seem much news to you. But it is news to you, especially when you know the people and they are your own folks. So no matter how punk you might think your local paper is getting, why just take it away from you and see how you feel. The old newspaper, I think, is just about our biggest blessing."

"So let's all read and be merry, for tomorrow the paper may not have enough ads in it to come out."

Mrs. Semmler then introduced Mrs. Fred Lufkin, State Press and Publicity chairman, of Elgin, Ill., who spoke of her work in the Federation. Mrs. Lufkin showed that each Press and Publicity chairman was really the Show Window of the club, as it is through her that the aims, ideas and ideals of the club is publicized.

The speaker likened Women's clubs to a four lane highway as: service, co-operation, action and promotion. She showed that the Women's clubs are always working for the highest and best ideals in life.

Mrs. C. K. Timmons who was scheduled to speak on Narcotics, did not arrive in Tinley Park for some unknown reason and therefore we were very much disappointed. I suppose we will soon hear from her as to her broken engagement.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, tea was served in the church parlors. The room was decorated in oak leaves in many hues of fall colors. The table was spread with a Hallowe'en crepe paper cover with a yellow pumpkin surrounded with oak leaves and two black candles. Mrs. Ebenhack and Mrs. Semmler poured.

The hostesses who assisted Mrs. Semmler and Mrs. Henry Wyman were Mrs. J. C. Funk and Mrs. Robert Bechstein, of Mokena.

Karleton Spalding Hockett, president of the Chicago City Opera company and for more than four decades one of the most prominent figures in Chicago's musical circles, died in the Presbyterian hospital.

The ninety-sixth annual Rock river conference of the Methodist Episcopal church closed with the reading of the list of pastoral appointments by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf in the First Methodist church of Elgin.

Less government interference in the meat producing and packing industries was advocated by Illinois Retail Meat and Food Dealers' association in a resolution adopted at its tenth annual convention in Peoria. The association elected Otto Gorski, Chicago, president; Joseph Ulick, Berwyn; Ralph Broquist, Rock Island, and Paul Eklund, Rockford, vice presidents.

Stephenson county civic leaders conferred with northern Illinois district WPA officials regarding the possibility of obtaining federal funds for construction of a memorial to the late Jane Addams at Cedarville, her birthplace. Arthur J. Coleman, nationally known taxidermist, the only man ever to open a shop within the walls of Stateville prison at Joliet, will appear in Will county Circuit court on a writ of habeas corpus October 22, in an effort to gain his freedom. Coleman, who is serving a life term for the murder of his wife in White county, was sentenced on May 16, 1923. His sentence was unusual, the judge ordering that he be punished further by solitary confinement on every anniversary of the murder.

Recent amendments to the school law, Attorney General Otto Kerner ruled, do not prevent the state auditor from making immediate quarterly payments from the school distributing fund on the basis of the old apportionment. The opinion was asked by Auditor Edward J. Barrett to settle a technical question, caused by an amendment, as to whether all payments should be held up until the new school fund appropriation of $13,000,000 annually is apportioned in January. The attorney general held that funds can be distributed immediately on the basis of the old appropriation, which was for $10,500,000 yearly. Schools at Rockford and some other cities have contended that they will be under a severe financial handicap if the state aid is not distributed promptly. The Kerner in further explanation said the increased appropriation can be distributed in the same proportion as when the schools were entitled to receive $10,500,000 from the state.

Three out of four state championships went to Fulton county in a round of judging contests held at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, for 4-H club members and vocational agricultural students of the state. The corn judging team was composed of Kenneth Voorhees, Maurice Wilson, and Bernard Deakin, while the poultry judging team was made up of Rollin Smith, Ralph Foulk, and Charles Turner. Fulton county's third championship came in the meats identification for vocational agricultural students. This team represented the Canton high school and was composed of Nelson Moore, Leonard Nelson, and Donald McFall.

Joseph W. Carter, fifty-four, an invalid, was burned to death in bed in Rockford, when a kerosene lamp exploded, igniting the bedding. The explosion apparently had been caused when Carter overturned the lamp in reaching for a glass of water.

John Nickels, thirty-eight years old, owner of a night club in Calumet City, was killed by Philip Baccino, thirty-two years old, Calumet City restaurant owner, in front of Baccino's home. BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST
(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 5:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.
Proverbs 20:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Daniel Solves a Riddle.

JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Feast of Belshazzar.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Drink Leads To.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Facts About Alcohol.

I. Belshazzar's Impious Feast (vv. 1-4).

1. Those in attendance (vv. 1, 2). Those present were Belshazzar, his wife and concubines, and one thousand of his lords.

2. Their behavior (vv. 3, 4).
a. They drank wine and engaged in drunken revelry.

b. They committed sacrilege. They drank wine from the sacred vessels taken out of the temple at Jerusalem.

c. They worshiped idols.

II. The Handwriting on the Wall (vv. 5-16).

1. The time of (v. 5). It occurred "in the same hour" in which they were engaged in their drunken debauchery.

2. The effect upon the king (v. 6). "The joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one against another."

3. The king's behavior (vv. 7-16).

a. He called for the astrologers and soothsayers, offering them rewards of gold and of position (vv. 7-9).

b. Daniel brought in at the suggestion of the queen (vv. 10-16). The queen was perhaps the wife of Nebuchadnezzar who remembered Daniel's service in interpreting the dream of her husband.

III. Daniel Interprets the Writing (vv. 17-28).

1. Daniel's address to the king (vv. 17-24).

a. He brushes aside his promised gifts (v. 17). He would not have his speech limited by the king's gift.

b. He reviewed before Belshazzar the history of Nebuchadnezzar (vv. 18-24). He showed clearly that Belshazzar should have profited by the experiences of his father.

2. The interpretation of the writing (vv. 25-28).

a. "Mene" means "numbered" (v. 26). "God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it."

b. "Tekel" means "weighed" (v. 27). "Thou art weighed in the balances and art found wanting."

c. "Peres" means "divided" (v. 28). "Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

IV. The Judgment Executed (vv. 29-31).

So rapidly did the divine judgment fall that Belshazzar was slain and Darius the Median took the kingdom that same night. The Chaldean dynasty ended with Belshazzar. We may, therefore, interpret this whole scene as pointing to the conditions at the close of the time of the Gentiles, and as adumbrating their prevailing conditions. Let us note

1. The stupidity of men. Belshazzar, like people today, did not learn by example. Nebuchadnezzar's fate should have deterred Belshazzar.

2. The magnificent splendor. This great feast was characterized by pomp, display and parade. How characteristic of our own age!

3. Luxury. The famous hanging gardens of Babylon were a noteworthy example. Signs of luxury abound today on every hand.

4. The licentiousness of the king with his many wives and concubines. Licentiousness is likewise notoriously prevalent today.

5. Blasphemous sacrilege. The sacrilege of this day may be in excess of that of Belshazzar's day and expresses itself in a. A profession of religion for pecuniary gain, social and political preferment.

b. The use of the pulpit of the Christian ministry for notoriety and even for the propagation of false doctrine.

c. Uniting with the church and attendance at the Lord's table so as to cover up secret sins.

d. The use of the Word of God to give point to a joke.

e. Denying that the Bible is God's Word, making it a book of errors, myths, and legends.

f. Sneering at the virgin birth, repudiating Christ's deity and setting aside his vicarious atonement.

6. Drunken carousals. The handwriting is on the wall. His judgments shall eventually fall. Conditions in the world indicate that the time is drawing near. Are you ready?

Washington
Digest

National Topics Interpreted

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

NATIONAL PRESS BLOC WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—It may be, and possibly is, true that the bulk of our people pay little attention to the fact that gold is pouring into the United States in an unprecedented volume. I can understand how the wheat farmer of the plains country or the cotton farmer of the South or any other type of farmer can fail to become excited over the influx of gold in the last five or six months. It appears to be a far cry from the grain fields or the cotton fields or the quarries or the small town to the heavy concentration of yellow metal to which the United States has been subjected. But the link nevertheless exists. It exists as surely and as definitely as night follows day and, therefore, it becomes a subject in which all of us are vitally interested.

Since the beginning of September a widespread flight of capital from Europe has manifested itself in the shape of gold exports to the United States. Three or four hundred millions of dollars in gold have landed here in that time. They bring the net inflow of gold for the year well above $1,000,000,000. And, going a bit further, this addition plus another $1,000,000,000 places our gold stocks in excess of $9,400,000,000, or roughly $2,000,000,000 more than was held here when the dollar was devalued under President Roosevelt's instructions.

It seems impossible to attribute this heavy and prolonged inflow to any single cause. Immediately after devaluation of the dollar, there was a steady stream of yellow metal headed for the United States which was due almost entirely to a desire of American holders of gold, temporarily stored abroad, to repatriate. But even in that case, there was a contributory factor to be considered. Monetary manipulation by the American government had a temporary effect on our exports, increasing them to some extent and it was increasing the balance of payments due to this country. So, we find our policies—that is, policies of the Roosevelt administration—responsible for the start of the inflow.

Later, another influence developed. Under the pressure of American monetary policies, foreign powers found their allegiance to the gold standard severely strained. Silver purchases by the treasury had an effect. The combination was primarily responsible for the second rush of gold.

Subsequently, the Italian-Ethiopian controversy began to take serious form and a new flood of gold to America developed. This was different than that which had immediately preceded it because this movement was related to international conditions of a political nature whereas the previous movement had resulted without relation to international strife in a military way but centered wholly upon American monetary policies and their effect upon economic conditions abroad.

Now, let us consider what can happen. Those acquainted with finance recognize in the existence of a gigantic stock of gold—the largest in American history and approximately 45 per cent of the entire world stock—the existence of a potential, if indeed it is not a probable, base for inflation. There is so much gold held by the American government, which holds virtually all of the gold stocks in this country, that no end of paper money can be issued against it. Those who believe in that type of currency policies say that it would be perfectly safe; that the government could pay off dollar for dollar or even more than a dollar for every paper dollar outstanding from the gold it holds. This school of thought contends that there is actually a shortage of money in circulation and insists that this is one reason why the country has not recovered from the depression more rapidly than conditions show. Of course, a cold appraisal of that argument catalogues it as the same old demand for inflation of the currency and everyone knows what inflation will do in the way of wrecking the person who works for wages or whose sole income consists of a compensation delivered to him in the form of weekly, semi-monthly, or monthly pay checks. The size of that check never has and never will catch up with the increase in prices which that individual must pay to live.

Then, there is another potential danger in this tremendous hoard of gold. It is in many ways similar to that which I have just related. It is, however, more of a psychological condition than the first. I refer to the attitude usually adopted by those who pull for inflation when they see a government possessed of vast stores of precious metals.

In this instance, the tangent of inflation sentiment is joined with the sponsors of the silver buying program.

'We Want More Money' They see all of this gold and silver and they simply cannot resist the opportunity for continued howling. Their speeches and their conversations are almost like a college yell: "We want more money." The more money which they desire being nothing more nor less than currency run off in the printing presses of the great bureau of engraving and printing in Washington.

Whether it is the first or the second type of inflation that is demanded, whether it is the printing press money or the money issued against gold or security, the results are the same. It is to be remembered in this connection that none of us can obtain gold from the treasury. The Roosevelt administration demanded of and obtained from congress legislation which definitely prohibited payment of gold for monetary use by the treasury under any circumstances except for the settlement of balances owed foreign nations. But that fact has not deterred demands by inflationists. They are calling and will continue to call for more paper money, and with every call the prices you pay for commodities are bound to increase—that is, they will increase until or unless there is a release of gold again for circulation as money.

So, it is quite apparent that as long as this influx of gold continues and as long as other nations are harassed by monetary manipulation in the United States, we are continually threatened with a "business boom" which is nothing less than inflation of credit. The real danger confronting this country, then, lies in that direction. Summarized, the threat is this: If that inflationist "business boom" gets started, no power on earth is able or will be able to stop it. The next and final step after that is complete destruction of our currency, and medium of exchange.

Political developments in the last few weeks have been completely dominated Stirred by Hoover by the spurge of activity on the part of former President Herbert Hoover. His pot shots at the New Deal in several speeches have agitated the Democrats much more than they are willing to admit and, notwithstanding assertions of satisfaction, they have thrown a new fear into the laps of the Roosevelt New Dealers.

But, if the Hoover speeches have excited the New Dealers and the conservative Democrats, they have almost precipitated a riot among the Republicans of whom he must be said to be, at least, the titular leader. The bulk of the Republicans look upon Mr. Hoover, because of these recent speeches, as a potential Republican nominee for the Presidency against Mr. Roosevelt next year. They look upon him, further, as an individual who is likely to disrupt plans that contemplate reconciliation, a love feast, among the various factions of the Republican party. They have been struggling to lay a base for this love feast and because of the intense hatred that some of their number have for Mr. Hoover, his activity has opened this breach again, made it a blood-red wound.

Political observers and commentators have shown all manner of excitement because Mr. Hoover has made no statement whether he will or will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination. In plain words, they have been trying valiantly to conduct a campaign that will smoke out Mr. Hoover and make him say whether he is or is not a candidate.

All of the efforts to find out what Mr. Hoover proposes to do have failed and will continue to fail, even with the underground work of the New Deal, to bring from him a statement as to his purposes. He will announce them in his own good time and his statement will be definite when it is made.

Personally, from all of the information I have been able to assemble, I do not believe that Mr. Hoover has any intention of seeking the nomination. I am convinced his purpose is directed wholly and completely to one end: he fears the New Deal and he is trying with all of the power that he possesses to acquaint the country with his views which are obviously in opposition to the theories and policies and experiments of the New Deal. From sources which I consider to be faithful, because they always have been accurate heretofore, it is apparent to me that Mr. Hoover desires to lend his help in acquainting the country with the things in the New Deal which he regards as dangerous to our nation's well being and that beyond such a purpose he is content to enjoy life as a fisherman and vacationist.

But there is another phase of this situation which seems to me to warrant consideration. While some of the anti-Hooverites have been denouncing him, even calling him names under their breath, Mr. Hoover has done the Republican party a big favor. By his attacks on the New Deal; by his condemnation of the things in it which he regards as certain to be destructive; in short, by his activity which many construe as a campaign for the nomination, he has made the Republicans conscious of the job they have to do. He has awakened them and has put fight into them which three or four short months ago did not exist.

JACK IS NEEDED IN PRESENT DAY,
SAYS AUTHORITY

A jack of all trades has usually been considered a handy fellow to have around. But it is the fashion to consider that such a general facility implies a lack of particular expertise, or to express it in simpler Anglo-Saxon, "jack of all trades; master of none."

Now speaks up a vocational expert to protest at this belittling of Jack. In these days of hazardous employment and drastic occupational changes resulting from the rapid advance of the machine, the jack of all trades is needed, says Prof. Harry D. Kitson of Teachers college, Columbia. Even if Jack is master of no trade, he is much more master of his own destiny than the one-occupation man. Therefore, says Doctor Kitson, today's vocational guidance effort should endeavor at all costs "to avoid giving young people the obsession that they are created for one occupation."

This, unfortunately, seems to be one result of relying too heavily on the aptitude tests and other methods of gauging ability which have been devised in great detail by the vocational guidance experts. Such tests have value; but they also have limitations. Doctor Kitson, one judges, is an expert with a saving sense of reasonableness. He recognizes there is a danger of not being able to see the woods for the trees.

The jack of all trades was supposed to be an outstanding human product of the pioneer days. He who alone, or with a small isolated group, was battling the old frontier, had to be a jack of all trades. And sometimes he was master of several.

It is surprising now to see the modern industrial setup, the antithesis of the frontier, demanding the same qualifications.

What Well-Dressed Eskimo
Is to Wear This Winter

Here's what the natives of St. Lawrence Island, bleak spot in Bering sea, will wear this winter:

Sealskin pants with the fur inside, over which is a second pair of heavy reindeer skin trousers with the fur outside.

Two pairs of stockings, sealskin and reindeer skin, with heavy fur mukluks or boots over all.

Two parkas or skin coats with long hoods to throw over the head in stormy weather. The inner coat is sometimes lined with birdskins.

Gloves or mitts of dogskin or walrus skin worn constantly.

The same styles prevail for women, men and children.

The proper treatment for a bilious child

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage, Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, destroy all hopes of restoring regularity.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use a liquid laxative. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative they generally use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE HUNTED WATCHES THE HUNTER

IT WAS so quiet and peaceful and altogether lovely there in the Green Forest where Lightfoot the Deer lay resting behind a pile of brush near the top of a little hill that it didn't seem possible such a thing as sudden death could be anywhere near. It didn't seem possible that there could be any need for watchfulness. But Lightfoot long ago learned that often danger is nearest when it seems least to be expected. So, though he would have liked very much to take a nap, Lightfoot was too wise to do anything so foolish. He kept his beautiful great, soft eyes fixed in the direction from which the hunter with the terrible gun would come if he were still following Lightfoot's trail. He kept his great ears gently moving to catch every little sound.

It Was the Hunter and Across One Arm He Carried the Terrible Gun.

Lightfoot had about decided that the hunter had given up hunting for that day, but he didn't let this keep him from being any the less watchful. It was better to be overwatchful than the least bit careless. By and by Lightfoot's keen ears caught the sound of the snapping of a little stick in the distance. It was so faint a sound that you or I would have missed it altogether. But Lightfoot heard it and instantly he was doubly alert, watching in the direction from which that faint sound had come. After what seemed a long time he saw something moving and a moment later a man came into view. It was the hunter and across one arm he carried the terrible gun.

Lightfoot knew now that this hunter had patience and perseverance and had not yet given up hope of getting near enough to shoot him. The hunter moved forward slowly, setting each foot down with the greatest care so as not to snap a stick or rustle the leaves. He was watching sharply ahead, ready to shoot should he catch a glimpse of Lightfoot within range. Right along through the hollow at the foot of the little hill below Lightfoot the hunter passed. He was no longer studying the ground for Lightfoot had left no tracks. He was simply hunting in the direction from which the Merry Little Breezes were blowing because he knew that Lightfoot had gone in that direction and he also knew that if Lightfoot were still ahead of him his scent could not be carried to Lightfoot. He was doing what is called, "hunting up wind."

Lightfoot kept perfectly still and watched the hunter disappear among the trees. Then he silently got to his feet, shook himself lightly, and noiselessly stole away over the hilltop towards another part of the Green Forest. He felt sure that hunter would not find him again that day.

QUESTION BOX
by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am taking an examination for a letter-carrier's position. One question seems to stick me. I know you will help me, so here's the question: "What has four legs and flies all around?"

Truly yours,
WILL I. PASS.

Answer:

Well, it's a question which answer the government wants from you. Two canary birds have four legs and fly all around, but I think the answer you want is as follows: "A dead horse has four legs and flies all around!"

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have trouble in keeping my silverware clean. They say that whiskey is the best polisher of silver. How is it used?

Sincerely,
IMA HOUSEKEEPER.

Answer: Just drink the whiskey and then blow on the silver.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I notice articles, in the newspapers, which refer to something or other happening in the great peace town, but they never mention the name of the town. I must confess my ignorance and ask you to please tell me the name of the great peace town.

Sincerely,
U. R. BRIGHT.

Answer: The greatest peace town I know of is Reno.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I just entered college this year. My father wants me to be a lawyer and I want to be a doctor. Can you tell me just what you think of these two professions, so I can choose?

Yours,
COL. EDGE-BOYE.

Answer: A doctor is a man who puts medicine, about which he knows little, into your stomach, about which he knows nothing, while a lawyer is a man who takes money from your enemy and keeps it for himself.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have been reading the pro and con discussions on "When a Man Is Drunk." Please tell me when a person can be absolutely sure that a man is drunk?

Truly yours,
Y. B. SOBER.

Answer: A man is absolutely "drunk" when he comes home late, puts the candle in bed, then blows himself out.

Do you remember words we did not speak, Long silences that told us more than words, The joyous ripple of the silver creek, And the soft answer of the bright-eyed birds?

Do you remember an October day Far lovelier than this, when for an hour Bright blue October skies reached the gray, And blest affection burgeoned into flower?

IT'S NOT IN MANY CEREALS

Nothing anyone eats is more important than Vitamin B—the vitamin for keeping fit. Yet it isn't in many cereals, when cereals are supposed to be our best source of this food element.

Many are nervous, poor in appetite, system out of order, because their daily diets lack enough of the precious Vitamin B for keeping fit.

Few things keep them back like a lack of this protective food element.

So give everyone Quaker Oats every morning. Because in addition to its generous supply of Vitamin B for keeping fit, it furnishes food-energy, muscle and body-building ingredients. For about 1/2c per dish.

Start serving it tomorrow for a 2-weeks test. Quaker Oats has a wholesome, nut-like, luscious appeal to the appetite. Flavors, surpassingly good. All grocers supply it.

"Where as the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company maintains its division point at Eldon, Missouri, and as a result of the building of this railroad through Miller county some 35 years ago, thirty millions of dollars has been paid out through the office of this company at Eldon, Missouri, in wages, taxes, material and the many things that are necessary in the building and upkeep of a modern railroad.

"In the year 1930, our Eldon payroll was $518,453, in 1934 the wages paid out were $320,565.32, and in the same year, Eldon taxes paid were $3,903.43 and the county $10,740.54.

"Realizing that the future welfare of the City of Eldon, Missouri and the Rock Island earnings and payroll and tax bills are so closely interwoven in their relations to each other, that as the Rock Island prospers so will our city and as the payroll increases so will buying power of its employees increase.

"Be it resolved by the Eldon Chamber of Commerce that we do everything in our power to encourage shipping by rail in and out of the city, that we encourage the patronage of the parent industry of this city, The Rock Island Railroad Company, and by our action bring back a share of the prosperity that has been taken out of our city and from our railroad.

"Be it further resolved, that copies of this resolution be posted in each business place in the City of Eldon, distributed to our friends among the farmers, to the officers of each railroad labor organization located at Eldon, and copies sent to the officials of the Rock Island rail-

PROBATE NOTICE

Estate of Mable Vander Boegh, Deceased.

The undersigned having been appointed Administrator of the estate of Mable Vander Boegh, late of Joliet, in the County of Will and State of Illinois, deceased, hereby gives notice that he will appear before the Probate Court of Will County, at the Court House in Joliet, in December 1935 on the first Monday in December next (being the Second day of said month), at which time all persons having claims against said estate are notified and requested to attend for the purpose of having the same adjusted. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment to the undersigned.

Dated this 10th day of October, A. D. 1935.

LESTER VANDER BOEGH, Administrator, as aforesaid.
Albert H. Krusemark, Attorney.

way company that all concerned may know of our action and lend their support in our efforts to increase the earnings and payroll at this point."

Here is a good little town, served by the Rock Island, whose taxes and employees play an important part in the community life, and this city saw fit to recognize it in this manner.

There is hardly a village, town or city on the Rock Island in the State of Illinois as which these conditions, to a greater or lesser degree, do not apply. It might be well for you to call this to the attention of your local chamber of commerce or other similar bodies and suggest that like action would be appreciated.

Orland Farmers To Vote On Corn Hog Program

Five polling places have been set up in Cook county so that corn and hog producers of the county may cast their ballots in the national corn-hog referendum on Saturday, October 26, it was announced by Clara Moede, secretary of the Cook County Corn-Hog Control Association.

Only one question will be on the ballot: Do you favor a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires on November 30, 1935? All operators and owners, or their official representatives, of farms which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote whether they signed 1934 or 1935 corn-hog contracts or not. Each eligible person is entitled only to one vote.

The schedule of the polling places, which will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., is as follows:

Farm Bureau Office at Arlington Heights.

Harz Garage at Buttermilk Corners.

Farm Bureau Office at Blue Island.

High School at Matteson.

Hollstein School in Orland Township.

County results of the referendum will be wired to state headquarters at the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois by Monday noon, and the state results, in turn, will be sent to Washington by Tuesday.

Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration point out that unless a sufficient number of farmers vote favorably, there will be no program. The administration must be assured that a sufficient number of farmers will participate to make a program operative and successful.

Facts upon which farmers can base their judgment have been presented in a series of community meetings, said O. G. Barrett, Farm Adviser. Evidence was presented to show that livestock numbers are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring the greatest increase in hog production that the country has ever seen in a similar period and consequent disastrous hog prices.

During the past 45 years there have been 10 such violent ups and downs or cycles, which have undermined the swine industry, brought violent upswings and downswings in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power and wiped out markets for industrial products.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is new about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but, after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—

Steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates 5½ gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermosiphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvres permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around at no extra cost. Hundreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Now on display by Ford dealers.

Another Public Enemy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

The "Public Enemy No. 1" of our criminal records is growing short-lived. The stern hand of justice, backed by an aroused indignation, makes both brief and inglorious his flash across the front page. As with all transgressors, his way is hard.

But there is another Public Enemy, enjoying a softer, more pampered life. It is Public Debt—national, state and local. Fed and pampered by politicians, it has expanded in girth as the rest of the country pulled in its belt.

In discussing it one must talk big money.

Today, for example, the Public Debt of the United States government exceeds $29,000,000,000. Count in the gross debt of all divisions of government in the country, and the total mounts to many billions more. Among the enemies of the American people it probably ranks No. 1. Why?

Because the public debt, along with its twin—current expenses of government—constitutes a claim on the earnings and the property of every American citizen. Both must be paid. How? By whom?

The answer is simple. By taxes—whether hidden or open—clipped from the earnings of every man or woman who labors, of every family that contributes its strength, its courage and its spirit to the building and preservation of a free, productive America.

This public enemy is an insidious one. He leaves his calling card—the tax bill—with comparatively few of his victims. From the great majority of workers he pilfers unsuspected—by increasing the cost of the bread they eat, of the rent bill they pay, of the insurance premium they meet, of the tools and equipment they buy, and of virtually every other necessity in normal, active American life.

For protection against the public enemy who robs us with a gun, we can turn to the police. For relief against the enemy who uses the tax levy, we must turn to the polls, and there elect public servants pledged to the same reasonable economy that the farmer, the business man or the housewife exercise.

America needs the G-man type in public office, as well as in crime prevention.

Over two hundred people were served at the chicken pie supper held in the Congregational church Friday night. A bazaar with a fish pond was held in connection with the supper.

The November meeting of the Wayside Workers Circle of the King's Daughters will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Paddock in Lockport on Thursday, November 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rodgers of Elwood were guests at the Henry Rodgers home Saturday.

Mrs. Lockwood of Kankakee and Mrs. Tillie Nelson of Bradley were guests at the home of Mrs. Guy Bump the past week. While here they attended a church bazaar in Chicago and Homer.

La Vergne Kasper is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rowley and daughters of Chicago Heights spent Sunday with his parents.

Ed. Oswald a student at the Lockport High school is ill in his home.

Miss Luella Weaver left Thursday for Pittsburg, Pa., to attend the funeral of her uncle.

Homer friends were pleased to hear that Mrs. Adam Bodenschäatz of Lemont was successful in winning a fifteen dollar prize on honey caramels, which she entered at the American Honey Producers League at Detroit, Michigan recently.

Mrs. Bodenschäatz was born and raised in Homer and we feel pleased with her success. The caramel recipe was one which Mrs. Bodenschäatz had herself originated.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Reader of Blue Island were guests in the Henry Winke home Sunday.

A group of friends gathered at the Homer hall Monday evening at a shower complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. George Bump who were just recently married. Cards and bunco was the evening's diversion, with prizes in bunco going to Mrs. Joshua Boyce, Mrs. Henry Winke, Bernice Olson, Tony Zolecki, Ralph Cagwin and Buster Hutson; in euchre, Mrs. Harry Jungles, Gertrude Fisch, Evelyn Kopelman, Lloyd Reiter, Jr., Jerome Boyce and Jerome Paddock which they also presented to the honored couple. Mr. and Mrs. Bump received many useful and beautiful shower gifts. Dancing and refreshments concluded a very pleasant evening.

Indian summer, in all its glory; blue sky, balmy breezes and sunshine, enticed some of Tinley Park nature lovers to spend a day in the great out of doors, last Friday October 18, in the crimson and gold tinted forest preserve. The ladies enjoyed a barbecue lunch cooked over glowing coals.

They lingered long over the meal, interested in the descriptive talk by Mrs. Trudie Swisher, who related incidents of her tour of the west.

The verse, Mrs. Swisher composed sung to 'Olde Lang Syne', made the woods ring with merriment.

Oh! we are nuts of every kind, but we dont grow on trees.

We go a flitting 'round the woods, and do just what we please.

We love old mother nature kind, I guess she loves us too.

To be a Nut for just one day, Is grand, now what say you?"

The sun was sinking in the west when the Tinley Park group turned their backs on the dying fire, for a drive through the picturesque wooded section which surrounds our home town.

Among those present from Tinley Park were: Mesdames; Swisher, R. Hug, Chas. Nielsen, Wallace Combs, Roy Hannum and W. Combs Jr.

The pamphlet contains all the laws of Illinois affecting veterans of all wars, veterans' societies and kindred organizations.

Measures dealing with soldiers' and sailors' compensation, civil service employment and relief of indigent veterans have been compiled by Secretary Hughes.

The booklet contains also all state laws relating to relief of soldiers' and sailors' widows and children.

Secretary Hughes announced that copies of the booklet will be mailed to veterans upon request.

Red Cross Has Busy Year; Statistics Impressive; Services Varied

Figures gathered at random from the year's report of the American Red Cross reveal the magnitude of the work being carried on by that organization.

Red Cross workers assisted 54,305 veterans; 587 Red Cross Public Health nurses paid 921,455 visits to 186,326 patients; 98,441 first aid certificates were issued while 46,693 persons were trained in life saving. Volunteer workers produced 3,102,843 surgical dressings, with 80,901 volunteers being on active duty throughout the year.

First Aid Treatment Taught Thousands By Red Cross

More than 187,000 certificates showing completion of first aid courses were issued last year by the Red Cross. This shows a gain of 56,000 certificates over the previous year. Approximately 64,200 boys in C.C.C. camps throughout the country passed first aid tests. Since the Red Cross first entered the field of first aid teaching, being one of the first organizations in the world to do so, almost one million persons have been trained in handling emergency treatment.

The annual report of the Red Cross further reveals that more than 327,000 copies of the Red Cross Aid Handbook have been sold at home and abroad.

The Red Cross has assisted 54,305 veterans in clearing their cases through the U. S. Veterans' Bureau this past year.

Smart Play Frock That's Easy to Sew

PATTERN 2382

Thine Adams

Pleated for play, in a very new way, this child's frock gives her plenty of room for rope-skipping. Her mother will find this smart frock so easy to cut and put together, and a very economical pattern, since bloomers are included with the dress. You can make these up in the same material, or just plain white to wear with other frocks, and no child can have too many pairs. The buttoned closing of the frock takes a new slant, and don't worry about those four pleats! They're as easy a decoration as you've ever made. Colorful novelty cotton for that crisp look, and a choice of short or long sleeves. Pattern 2382 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 6 takes 2½ yards 36 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrast. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

AGREEABILITY

"My dear," said Miss Cayenne, "a desire to be agreeable has spoiled my disposition. You can't be agreeable to some people without saying sharp things about others."

Natural Ability

Visitor—What line do you expect your boy to go into?

Father—I've decided to make a lawyer of him. He just likes to get into a quarrel and mix in other people's business, and I figure he may as well get paid for it.

Handicapped

Bob—Mr. Schwartz, the butcher, wants a right-hand man.

Steve—Just my luck, doggone it. I'm left-handed!—Washington Post.

"I think I understand, child," she had said, in a voice that was all sadness. And it was Silver who had cried. By midafternoon the sky was a sullen, gray-white glare of heat, and the leaves of the Micheners' shade trees drooped like flakes of lead. A new and sinister stillness pervaded the air, a sort of hushed and unwholesome waiting. Although there was not a cloud in sight, low in the west there was a curious humid depth of blue, as though the paint from a water-color had run down and settled.

"It's goin' to storm!" Grandma Michener predicted.

Silver was preparing to leave for home when Phil Michener came back from Maynard. The incident at the Emerald Bay club had been the talk of the town during the day.

"Strikes me," Phil added, "Roddy ought to keep that pretty wife of his away from such places—though that's his business, not mine."

"Corinne wasn't over there last night?" Silver put in.

"She was there with the Richters," Phil told her.

Silver bade a hurried farewell and started for home. As she spurred Rusty over the short-cut and through the fields, she found herself shivering with some nameless apprehensiveness that had no connection with the approaching storm. Here and there alongside the grassy, almost unused road, the cottonwood leaves rustled fitfully, as if in some secret agitation, for it could not be the glazed, dead air that stirred them.

The light was subtly changing. The effect of it was rather that of looking at an eclipse of the sun through a blue glass. And when Silver finally turned her horse into his own pasture, the western horizon had swollen into a blue-black, monstrous reef.

There was no one in the yard as she approached Roddy's house. Roddy and Steve, Silver knew, were cutting hay in the south field, almost a mile away. The whirr of the mower came faintly on the dead stillness of the later afternoon.

In the driveway, before the door of the big house, stood Roddy's car. As Silver passed it, she glanced into it and saw a large black suitcase lying across the seat. Could Corinne possibly be planning to go somewhere with the storm coming on?

She flung open the kitchen door and almost collided with Corinne—hatted and gloved, and wearing a tailored dark silk dress suitable for traveling. In one hand she carried a small leather case and her purse. Under her other arm snuggled Macbeth, her red Pomeranian. These details Silver took in with alarmed comprehension.

"Where in the world are you going, Corinne?" she asked. "Don't you see there's a storm coming up?"

Corinne laughed nonchalantly, although her eyes flamed in reckless defiance. "I haven't time to tell you," she replied. "I have to hurry."

What are you doing? Let me go!" Her voice rose to a piercing shriek as Silver seized her and forced her violently into a chair.

"For God's sake, Corinne!" Silver panted. "Have you lost your senses completely?"

"Take your hands off me!" Corinne burst out. She had gone white with fury as she struggled to release herself.

Silver dropped Corinne's arms and stepped back from her, agitated and bewildered. "Are you going away with Gerald Lucas?" she demanded.

"This is none of your business!" Corinne fumed as she sprang from the chair. "I know what I'm doing. I haven't time to talk to you—even if I wanted to!"

She started again toward the door, but Silver barred her way.

"How dare you interfere with me?" Corinne stammered, with something of her old imperious manner, which was to Silver merely pathetic now. "You must be crazy!"

"It's you who are crazy," Silver interrupted coldly.

Corinne seemed to regain control of herself. "Think what you like," she said in a calmer tone. "I have never cared much about what you think of me, anyhow." She pushed back her sleeve with a trembling hand and glanced at her watch. "All I want now is to get away. That's all I've wanted from the first day I came here. I've left a note telling Roddy he can find the car in front of Haber's store. Let me pass, please!"

Silver did not move from her place before the door. "I can't let you go—like this."

"Have your own way, then," Corinne told her. "I'll go out by the front door."

Silver burst suddenly into tears and clung to Corinne.

"Corrie—I implore you! Don't do this to yourself! I know what life with Gerald will be. I've seen enough of it—I've been through it. Your life will be ruined. Corinne, darling—please—please—I won't let you go!"

Silver caught her arm, but Corinne, with a sharp little jerk of her body, disengaged herself. Her small, piquant face was frozen with determination.

She looked suddenly years older.

"I tell you—I don't care!" she cried desperately. Her head was proud and high. "I can't let him go away alone. I realized that last night when he told me he would have to leave. I love him—and he loves me." For an appalling moment her face became almost shrewish. "If I don't like the way Gerald lives, perhaps I can make something worth while out of him—and I couldn't do that for Roddy Willard!"

Before Silver could reach her, Corinne had darted into the front room and out the door. Silver ran after her, sobbing, pleading, clutching at her in despair, but Corinne, in stony, inexorable silence, climbed into the car and drove away.

Silver looked wildly after her, and stood for a moment with her hand pressed frantically against her mouth. She was vaguely aware that it had grown much darker, that the earth seemed enclosed in an airless, suffocating sphere. Then she stamped her foot and brushed the tears impatiently from her eyes.

"Go, then—you d-d little idiot!" she said aloud as she saw the car pass through the gateway and gather speed in the open road.

Suddenly there came into her mind the clamorous necessity of finding Roddy. The distance to the hayfield seemed immeasurable as she went running, stumbling, plunging to no avail again and again over the entangling meshes of grass, over the familiar and the treacherous ruts of a fallow field which was wavering strangely now with livid patches of shadow. She paused and glanced over her shoulder to reassure herself that she had come at least half way, when there came a sound that was a shrill, demoniacal whine, followed by a roar that stunned all thought.

Then the rain came.

The rain, the rain, the blessed rain! Silver threw her arms wide and laughed in sheer pagan joy as the rich, drowning flood of it descended upon her. It washed away all drouth and hunger and defeat; it washed all error from the human heart and wrong thinking from the human mind.

The rain ceased as suddenly as it had begun. Presently, from the direction of the Willard hill, Silver saw a dark shape plunging toward her. It was Roddy.

"What the devil are you doing out here?" he demanded as he came within speaking distance.

"I started out to find you—when the rain came," she replied haltingly.

"We hit for the house when we saw it coming," he said.

"You've been home—you've found Corinne's letter?" she asked.

"I found it," he replied in a clipped tone.

"I tried to stop her, Roddy. I fought with her—but I couldn't do anything. Then I ran—to get you—so that you could go after her—before it was too late."

Roddy smiled bitterly. "H—I, they've gone to Mexico!" he said. "That's too far away for me."

"You're going to let her go?"

"It isn't as bad as it looks, kid," he said slowly. "Corinne really left me—months ago. But—come along, Steve is out looking for you, and Phronie is having fits because you're not in the house."

He put his arm about her gently and they walked in silence toward the house. To the eastward, lightning strode across the sky, and all about them are air quaked with thunder.

"Don't you think too much about this, Silver," Roddy said steadily as they went across the field. "I'm giving Corinne a chance to live the life she wants to live. I've known what she wanted—but I've never been able to give it to her. I was a d-d fool, I guess. But there's something I want to tell you—Corinne is really in love with Lucas. I have suspected it all along, but when she came home last night—there was something about her—a sort of glory in her face that I've never seen there before. I asked her about Lucas and she told me she loved him. There wasn't anything I could do about it, kid. I told her she could go when she felt like it."

Silver's heart beat so rapidly that she could make no reply. They made their way across the field until they came parallel with Roddy's experimental tract of corn. The sky was lifting now as though the lid were being raised from a casket of glowing jewels. Green and gold and blue, in a cleansed and hallowed world—"I cast over the heart a spell of awe and wonder."

On this, the south side of the field, the locusts had done very little damage. And now, after the rain, the stalks stood tall and fine, the snug, firm ears glistened, and the leaves flowed with beauty.

Silver, her eyes upon the field, thought of Corinne. "How could she go away from this, Roddy—and take a chance on the life?"

Roddy smiled down at her. "Life's a gamble—wherever you live it, Silver," he said. "It's when you live it with someone you love that makes the difference."

He took her shoulders in his hands, turned her about and looked through almost a year of frustration, despair and defeat—into the serenity of Silver's eyes.

And across his shoulder, Silver saw a rainbow above the land.

CROSS-STITCH QUILT BLOCKS

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Cross-stitch is about the simplest thing in handwork. Little girls make their stitches in cross-stitch. These six-inch blocks are stamped in cross stitch designs on white muslin and little girls to grandmothers will enjoy making them into everything from small dollies to pillow tops, scarfs and bedspreads. Easy to carry around, working one at a time and then assembling into article wanted when all the squares are finished.

Outfit No. 46-4 consists of 6 of these six-inch stamped squares and will be mailed to you for 10 cents.

Arabic in Everyday Use

Housewives of the world use Arabic in everyday conversation, said Dr. Henry Farmer when he lectured at Glasgow university, Glasgow, on "Arabian Influence on Western Civilization," recently. "Housewives, for instance, scarcely imagine that when they talk of sugar, cotton, damask, taffeta, orange, muslin, lozenge and perhaps soap and the loaf, they are using Arabic words," he continued. "Men of learning use Arabic continually, probably without knowing it. In medicine, 'alcohol' and 'alembic' and hosts of other words are pure Arabic, and again, when astronomers speak of 'zenith' and 'nadir,' and mathematicians of 'algebra' and 'cipher,' they are using Arabic words."

World's Most Famous

Babies Eat Oatmeal

The Dionne Quintuplets, wards of the King, eat the same cereal that is eaten by millions of babies who don't get their names in the papers—oatmeal. The Canadian government chose a staff of special experts for the care of the Quints. And these experts, their scientific knowledge endorsing the instinctive choice of mothers the world over, have chosen oatmeal for the cereal of the famous five.

Oatmeal, eminent medical authorities agree, has an abundance of everything a child's cereal should have—body-building minerals, muscle-building protein, and the supremely important Vitamin B for keeping fit.

Food science says that Vitamin B is the best safeguard against those dangerous enemies of childhood—nervousness, constipation, and poor appetite due to lack of that vitamin in the diet.

Sing Something Simple

A bandmaster in New York finally has broken down and written a march song, the words of which consist of a series of "la-la-las." His purpose, it seems, was to make the words easy enough to remember, so that a large audience could be induced to sing the song. The struggle that audiences usually have with the second verse of "The Star-Spangled Banner" suggests that he may have found the solution to one of the two problems in community singing. The other problem is to keep the audience on the tune.

Take Schools
Out of Politics

EDITOR NEWS-BULLETIN:

Our County Superintendent of Schools is the most important office in the county, for his office has the training of the minds of the children. When I came to Illinois Mr.
Maue was the County Superintendent.
I believe he was in every way qualified for the position. In my talks to parents those of the Democratic (mixed with a few Republicans) opposed not because of anything wrong, but they wanted a change. One of the complaints was that he showed favoritism, but in hunting up the favors shown to scholars it was a benefit to both the scholar and the school.

The Superintendent of Schools should not be elected at the general election. The office ought to be thoroughly non-partisan. I am asked how can that be done? The answer is easy. Every year there is a school trustee elected. They are non-partisan. We could elect the superintendent at the same time.

Our schools are no place for playing peanut politics. The act of the Will County Board in cutting down the school appropriation just to put Mr. Booth in a hole because he is of the opposite party should bring the hearty condemnation of child lovers whether parents or not.

The Joliet-Herald News failed to give the names of the Supervisors who voted no, so we don't know who they are, but the voters will know by the first of April. Had Mr. Booth been elected as a non-partisan it would not have happened.

Avoid Disappointing It
"The Immoderate use of chewing gum may lead to stomach disorders," says a physician. This is easily understandable. When the jaws begin to work the stomach naturally looks for something to come down, and gets peevish if it doesn't.—Boston Transcript.
